

MICHAEL B. COLEMAN

(1946 -)

Spotted Skunks - Artist Proof Etching, 14¼" x 5¼" signed lower right $500.00

Born and continuing to live in Provo, Utah, Michael Coleman is a prominent Southwestern landscape painter working with a traditional style. His work is influenced by such 19th century painters as Henry Farny, Thomas Moran and George Inness, and also by the well-known animal painter Carl Runguis. Coleman majored in Fine Arts at Brigham Young University, and then traveled widely for subject matter. He has exhibited at the National Academy of Western, and in 1978, at the age of 32, Coleman was given his first retrospective at the Buffalo Hill Historical Center. In 1999, he won the Prix de West Award at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame for his bronze titled "September 39."
